Point of article: To build excitement for our upcoming performances and to inspire like minded souls to join and support us.

REVISED

The Rochester Freedom Singers are bursting into spring! Romance is in the air! The landscape is fast transforming from the bleakness of winter into the excitement of the scents and sounds of spring. Our spring fever has us picking out logos, printing t-shirts, getting advertisers and looking for sponsors. Emotions run high as deadlines need to be met. We are so excited, ~~yet~~ sometimes very exhausted.

Charlotte Clark, the Publicity Director at WROC Channel 13, has invited the Rochester Freedom Singers to be part of her programming on a new show "Many Voices, Many Visions" aired Sunday mornings at 9:00 am. The show's theme is the beauty of diversity.

Our first appearance on the show is scheduled to air on Mother's Day, May 8th, 1994 and will feature the chorus singing the Many Visions, Many Voices theme song and Bill Coleman singing a solo rendition of "The Greatest Love of All". The topic of the interview portion, gay parenting, will feature Freedom Singers Bill Coleman, a gay father discussing his joys and pains and love in that relationship and Amy Peasley, a lesbian mother discussing her love for her daughter while in the midst of a three year custody battle. • Insert C

Our second appearance will air on June 12th and will feature Freedom Singer Michael Lee performing an original piece of music written by Tommy Warfield. The forum topic of diversity will include our Japanese conductor Dr. Ted Ashizawa, the Jewish chorus Shaker and Mover Jodi Cohen and African-American soloist Michael Lee.

Other Future dates are:

We will be performing at DUPC on Saturday, June 4th at 8:00 pm. Our love theme concert, called "Sounds Like Love", will be featuring some exciting new twists and growths within the Rochester Freedom Singers talent. A few original pieces of music will be added to our permanent rep. One piece was written by Tommy Warfield.

Our upcoming concert, Saturday, June 4, 1994, "Sounds Like Love", will convey, through words and music, some of the many aspects of that feeling - LOVE.
Everyone is experiencing at least a tinge of that special feeling.

We will be singing at the Lilac Festival on May 21st, Saturday at 12:00 noon on the center stage. We are reaching
